1. The most highly classified of the regularly-appearing publications of the Yugoslav State Secretariat of Defense is an information bulletin (Informacioni bilten) which appears twice a week and the distribution of which is restricted to the highest government officials. This bulletin contains classified information on political and military events, diplomatic maneuvers of the State Secretariat for Foreign Affairs, confidential Party news, and intelligence from abroad. Supplementing this bulletin is a further bulletin (Bilten za informaciju) which appears fortnightly and contains principally military news, both Yugoslav and foreign. The distribution of both of the above bulletins is determined by the personnel section of the Defense Secretariat and by General Otmar Kresacic.

2. Books of a classified nature are also published from time to time and distributed in a limited circle of recipients. Most of such books are published by the Vojno Delo military press in Belgrade. This establishment also puts out a monthly magazine of the same name, Vojno Delo.
